4. Products Page Workflow

Header: Products

When user clicks Products, the page should contain two main product sections:

1. US Stocks
2. US ETFs

The Products header may either open a full Products Page or show a dropdown:

Dropdown Item	Action
US Stocks	Scrolls to US Stocks section
US ETFs	Scrolls to US ETFs section

Section 1: US Stocks

Content Structure

Block	Description
What are US Stocks?	Simple explanation of investing in US-listed companies
Why US Stocks?	Explains access to global companies, sectors, and innovation themes
Trending US Stocks	Shows selected popular / trending US stocks
CTA	Start Investing in US Stocks

Suggested Content

US Stocks allow investors to participate in companies listed on US exchanges. These may include businesses from technology, AI, semiconductors, healthcare, consumer, financial services, and other global sectors.

Section 2: Why US Stocks?

Suggested Cards

Reason	Explanation
Global Companies	Many of the world's largest companies are listed in the US
Sector Depth	Strong exposure to technology, AI, semiconductors, biotech, and consumer brands
Portfolio Diversification	Adds international market exposure
USD Exposure	Provides dollar-linked investment exposure
Long-Term Themes	Useful for investors looking at global innovation themes

Section 3: Trending US Stocks

Display Format

Stock Name	Sector	Short Description
Apple	Technology	Consumer devices and services
Microsoft	Technology	Cloud, software, and AI
NVIDIA	Semiconductors	AI chips and data centre demand
Tesla	Electric Vehicles	EVs, batteries, and clean mobility
Amazon	Consumer / Cloud	E-commerce and cloud infrastructure

The list should be editable from the backend so the team can update trending stocks regularly.

Section 4: US ETFs

Content Structure

Block	Description
What are US ETFs?	Explains ETFs as basket-based investments
Why US ETFs?	Explains diversification, simplicity, and theme-based exposure
Trending ETFs	Shows selected popular / trending ETFs
CTA	Start Investing in US ETFs

Suggested Content

US ETFs help investors gain exposure to a basket of stocks, sectors, indices, or themes through a single listed instrument. They are useful for investors who want diversified exposure instead of selecting only individual stocks.

Section 5: Why US ETFs?

Suggested Cards

Reason	Explanation
Diversified Exposure	Invest in a basket of securities through one instrument
Simple for Beginners	Easier than selecting multiple individual stocks
Index Exposure	Invest in broad US market indices
Sector Exposure	Explore sectors like technology, healthcare, energy, and financials
Thematic Exposure	Explore themes like AI, semiconductors, clean energy, and dividend investing

Section 6: Trending US ETFs

Display Format
